Introduction:

GTB keeps appropriate confidentiality within its operations. Personal information or information that may be a matter of public record will not be disclosed to third parties.

Personal information is information not in the public domain which identifies an individual and which is capable of being associated with a specified individual. This could include email address, home address, home telephone number, date of birth, marital status, next of kin; salaries and wages of Directors, staff and academic staff; all information concerning students, their enrolment, academic performance and their personal welfare (such as medical matters) and records of an individual student's library borrowings; information concerning persons who apply or are appointed to be academic staff with GTB. It may include visual information, such as photographs of people. For the purposes of this policy, personal information is given a broader meaning than in the Right to Information Act 2009 and the Information Privacy Act 2009. (The FOI Act refers to "personal affairs information", meaning matters of private concern to individuals).

Confidentiality and Privacy within the Education Program

Each student when entering the institute's GTB education program enters in an educational relationship with the Directors and academic staff. The sharing of information amongst the Directors and academic staff is a necessary exception to the duty of confidence assumed by the Directors or academic staff who has been given information. However, any sharing of information about students is governed by the following guidelines

- Information will be shared on a need to know basis: Access to either paper-based or computerised records should be sought and will be granted only where there is a demonstrated need for this because of the academic staff's functions or responsibilities. Even where access is granted, it is appropriate in some cases e.g. giving contact details to a cohort member, it will be done after the person to whom the information relates gives permission.

- It is noted that sometimes, personal information will be obtained orally, for instance, in an interview with a student concerning course progress. The information may or may not be recorded in documentary form. Nonetheless, privacy should be respected, and the information should not be discussed with others, except where this is necessary to undertake functions concerning the student or academic staff who has provided the information.
- It is noted that when working with students' process issues are generally more relevant and less confidential than the disclosed content. For example, one academic staff member may pass on to another that someone was distressed the day before and not pass on the reasons for the distress.
- Confidentiality, in line with the PACFA Code of Ethics will be breached if there is risk of harm to the student's well-being or life, to others, to the community at large or to academic staff or other members of the education cohort;
- Information that needs to be shared should not be used in assessing the performance of students, which should be limited to assessment against clearly identified criteria for each subject; and,
- The limits upon the duty of confidentiality as noted in the PACFA Code of Ethics also apply: namely in supervision, where there is risk of harm to a student or other person or when required by law to reveal information.

The Directors and academic staff are unable to assume any duty to a student in connection with the disclosure of information by another student and will endeavour to emphasise to students the necessity for confidentiality.

Disclosure of personal information under statutory or other legal authority:

- In some cases, legislation has conferred upon certain public officers the right to demand and receive information, even though it would otherwise be regarded as confidential. A typical example is the Income Tax Assessment Act under which the Commissioner can authorise officers of that department to require any person to answer any question or to produce any document for inspection. The Commonwealth Departments of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations may also have powers to obtain access to personal information in specific circumstances.
- Furthermore, the Institute must observe the Information Privacy Principles (IPP's) set out in Information Standard 42 – Information Privacy, which mirror those of the Commonwealth Privacy Act. Right to Information Act 2009 and the Information Privacy Act 2009. Under IPP No.11, although generally personal information should not be disclosed, it may be if disclosure is reasonably necessary for the enforcement of the criminal law or of a law imposing a pecuniary penalty, or for the protection of public revenue.
- In cases where enquiries are received from public officials, the relevant statutory authority to obtain access to such information should be requested. Statutory authority should be detailed in writing, as should written verification of appointment of a person entitled to require the information. When this authority is produced, the enquiry should be referred to the Institute Directors who may gain legal opinion.
- Until such confirmation is obtained, inspection of the Institute's documents is not permitted, no personal information should be released verbally, and copies of documents should not be provided.
- Similarly, where disclosure is sought during legal proceedings, e.g. by service of a subpoena or notice of third party disclosure, this must always be referred promptly to a Director of GTB.

- Privacy issues can be discussed with one of the Directors of Education of GTB, if necessary, on a confidential basis. If an individual believes that their privacy has been breached, a complaint may be made by following the Grievance Policy. To enable such a complaint to be properly investigated, it should identify the person whose privacy appears to have been breached.

Student Record Management Procedures

The National Privacy Principles of the Privacy Amendment (Private Sector) Act 2000 give individuals the right to know what information an organisation holds about them and a right to correct that information if it is wrong. These provisions apply to student records created or modified from 21 December 2001.

The file of each student assists the institute to make academic assessment of the development of the knowledge and skills of each student. These files contain no record of a student's development of therapeutic skills in the context of their role as client in one-to-one personal therapy. Rather they are records of application and academic achievement. They include completed application forms, assessment submissions and semester or subject reports that have been given to students throughout their education.

Students may request access to their file upon request and arrange to make an appointment at a time convenient to the Directors to peruse this file. If students feel that the information contained in their file is incorrect they may speak to one of the Directors of GTB to clarify the matter. If the issue is not dealt with to the satisfaction of the student, the student may follow the grievance processes that are outlined in this policy on the GTB website <http://www.gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au/policies>.

The following processes will be followed in keeping student records to ensure security of records:

1. All student enrolment forms are scanned into the electronic filing system;
2. Each student has a file designated to hold all the student's information, assignments, correspondence, etc.;
3. All student assignments are scanned and placed in the student's electronic file;
4. A copy of each student's academic record is held with the electronic filing system as well as within the data base;
5. Copies of academic awards are held in the electronic filing system as well as within the data base;
6. The filing cabinet that holds student records shall be kept in Brisbane, locked and held in a room away from student access. The room is locked outside working hours.

Dual Relationships within the educational setting

GTB follows PACFA protocol regarding dual relationships. It is noted that an academic staff member contracted by GTB cannot be the counsellor or psychotherapist of any enrolled student.

4. Statement regarding the handling of complaints relating to academic staff and staff members

Introduction

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane Pty Ltd (GTB) is concerned about maintaining the highest levels of quality and integrity of its courses and administrative practices. Accordingly, GTB operates with a set of Grievance Procedures set out in this policy that students or people seeking to enrol in any of GTB's courses and/or accredited higher education courses are entitled and encouraged to use when necessary. A copy of GTB's Grievance Policy and Procedure will be given to prospective students on request or at the time of interview. All students have access to this policy on the GTB Website: <http://www.gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au/policies>

The grievance procedures detailed in this policy document are utilized for both non-academic and academic grievance issues.

All students of GTB or those seeking to enrol in a course of study with GTB are entitled to access the grievance procedures set out in this policy, regardless of the location of the campus at which the grievance has arisen, the student's place of residence or the mode in which they study.

The complainant and/or the respondent in a grievance process are permitted to be accompanied and assisted by a third party such as a family member, friend, counsellor or other professional support person if they so desire at any stage throughout the process. GTB will not bear the cost of any external consultant that the complainant invites to join her/him in this process.

The complainant and the respondent will not be victimized or discriminated against in any of the three stages of addressing a grievance as set out in this policy.

Records of grievances and their outcomes will be kept strictly confidential and filed in a separate file (not kept on the student or staff file) and stored in the office of the GTB for a period of five years. Parties to the complaint will be allowed supervised access to these records.

Anonymous grievances will be accepted; however, the lodger needs to be aware that:

- It is not possible to provide support to a person whose identity is not known to GTB;
- It is not possible to advise the lodger of the outcome of an anonymous complaint; and

- Depending on the information provided, it may not be possible to act in relation to the concerns raised. However anonymous grievances will be kept on file to ensure they can be referred to in the future if similar issues arise.

Stages of the Grievance Procedure

The grievance procedures have three stages at which a complaint may be addressed. Each stage is free of cost. Complainants and/or respondents will also be provided with reasons and full explanations in writing for decisions and actions taken at every stage of the grievance process if they request this. The complainant and/or the respondent are permitted to be accompanied and assisted by a third party at any stage throughout the process.

In the first instance, grievances should be discussed with the person/s involved in an informal process. However, if this is impracticable, complainants should communicate his/her concerns with an academic staff member who is delivering the program or one of the Directors of Gestalt Therapy Brisbane.

This arrangement is free of charge. Every effort will be made to make a decision within fourteen days.

The second stage of the process at which a grievance is addressed as follows:

If unsatisfied with the response to the grievance or the time taken to resolve the matter, the complainant may submit the grievance in writing to the Chair, Academic Governance Body, Gestalt Therapy Brisbane and ask that the matter be dealt with at meeting of this committee. On receiving such a letter, the Chair will call for a meeting of the Academic Governance Body within a reasonable time, normally within 30 days of receipt of the grievance. Every effort will be made to make a decision within 30 days.

The third stage of the process at which a grievance is addressed is as follows:

If not satisfied with the decision as communicated by the Chair, Academic Governance Body the complainant may request that the matter be dealt with through an external dispute resolution process by the person/body appointed by the provider for that purpose. The details of this person/body are as follows:

GTB employs the Services of IAMA (The Institute of Arbitrations & Mediators Australia).

Grievances will be addressed within 30 days.

Where a student or potential student requests that a grievance be dealt with through an external dispute resolution process one of the above external reviewers will be appointed by a Director of GTB to investigate the grievance issues fully. The external reviewer will be contracted to interview the student or potential student and representatives from GTB who are involved in the grievance. They will be contracted to write a report on the matters at hand and to make a recommendation as to how the grievance can be resolved. The result of the external investigation will be communicated to the student or potential student within 30 days. The costs of this dispute resolution process and writing of the report and recommendations will be borne by GTB and will be free of charge to the complainant. GTB will not bear the cost of any external professional outside of the described process that the complainant asks to engage in the process or consults about the process.

If one of the external reviewers makes recommendations in relation to a grievance they have reviewed, the external review persons will forward those recommendations to the Director of Gestalt Therapy Brisbane within 14 days. This Director will ensure that the recommendations are implemented within 30 days.

The Directors GTB recognizes that grievances can be of an academic or non-academic nature.

Academic-Related Grievances refers to grievances on issues such as admissions, credit for prior study, student assessment, academic grades, curriculum and other course-related matters. All students of GTB can use these procedures to submit a grievance about an academic matter.

Non-Academic Grievances refers to grievances on three levels. Firstly, it deals with administrative matters such as institutional practices, financial issues, resources, marketing and access. Secondly it deals with issues of public behaviour, and the relationships that develop between and among colleagues, students, and members of the public. Finally, it deals with professional practice and other ethical or practice issues covered by the Institute’s Ethical Principles. These principles are outlined in Table 1.

Table 1. Gestalt Therapy Brisbane’s Ethical Principles

1	The working relationship between a Director, staff member, academic staff member, student and clients is governed ethically. It is a relationship, which is respectful, and valuing of each person who is part of it and the member has the primary responsibility for maintaining the ethical framework of that relationship;
2	A Director and staff member work in the best interests and for the welfare of students and clients;
3	A Director and staff member work within the limits of their competence, monitoring their effectiveness and recognizing the need for their on-going professional development;
4	A Director and staff member demonstrate integrity and openness to their students and clients, and can separate themselves from the relationship for self-reflection;
5	A Director and staff member do not exploit or harm their students or clients;
6	A Director and staff member respect the dignity, worth and uniqueness of all individuals and affirm their autonomy;
7	A Director and staff member recognize and respect diversity and differences between people. A Director and staff member do not practice, condone or abet unjustified discrimination or oppressive behaviour;

9	A Director and staff member work within the law; and,
10	Within the broader context, the above ethical principles are manifest whenever applicable in all the professional activities and relationships engaged in by a Director and staff member.

Where the grievance processes cannot resolve the grievance described above, the student or potential student will be advised of the appropriate legal bodies from which he/she can seek further assistance or advice. Gestalt Therapy Brisbane will not meet costs that are incurred by students or potential students in following through any external legal body.

1. Referral of complaint to PACFA: if students are dissatisfied with the results of their grievance complaint or the way the grievance process has been conducted they can make a formal grievance to PACFA (Psychotherapy and Counselling Federation of Australia). PACFA is a professional association for counsellors and therapists including Gestalt therapists and the education program offered by GTB is accredited through PACFA.
2. Mediation:

Queensland: The Department of Justice and Attorney-General runs Dispute Resolution Centres throughout Queensland. Students can request mediation at one of these Centres to resolve their concerns, however the Institute will need to consent to being involved, and any outcomes of mediation will not be legally binding. Students can find out more about mediation at: <https://www.qld.gov.au/law/legal-mediation-and-justice-of-the-peace/settling-disputes-out-of-court/mediation/>, or by telephoning: (07) 3239 6007 in Brisbane or 1800 017 288 from the rest of Queensland.

Education in this grievance procedure will occur for all staff at the beginning of each academic year.

The procedures set out in this document do not replace or modify procedures or any other responsibilities which may arise under other higher education provider policies or under statute or any other law.

Policy No. 3 appendix - Overview 3
Statement regarding the handling of grievances relating to the Academic Staff/Director-Student relationship

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane acknowledges that the most common form of complaint that will emerge for GTB will result from a breakdown in the relationship between the academic staff/Director and student.

GTB wishes to acknowledge that this break down in relationship between academic staff/Director and student needs to be addressed in a sensitive and comprehensive manner and that resolution strategies must be cognisant of the power issues that are inherent in the academic staff–student relationship. GTB acknowledges that academic staff, year coordinators and Directors have a position of authority within the education program in that they observe, assess and give feedback to students on their progress within the educational setting. They also make recommendations as to a student’s suitability within the program.

Accordingly, GTB makes known to its students its willingness to address the issues of students in a supportive and professional manner. It does this verbally when working with students and in written form in the Student Handbook. GTB also makes public the student’s right to take their grievance to GTB’s formal Grievance Procedure.

Firstly, GTB works towards the resolution of grievances through the Informal Resolution of Difference processes (See Overview 1).

Students are invited to bring their concerns to the person involved or if this is difficult to another academic staff member or the Director.

When a student has approached an academic staff member/Director with a grievance the academic staff member/Director encourages the student to voice his or her concerns. When this is difficult for the student an academic staff member/director other than the person to whom the grievance is directed may assist the student to voice their concerns. A student will be supported to take the issue of his or her concerns to personal therapy in order that he or she may heighten awareness of the issues involved and the matter he or she wishes to voice.

Another academic staff member and/or Director support an academic staff member/Director who is involved in a breakdown of relationship with a student in order that this academic staff member/Director may work appropriately towards grievance resolution.

Appropriate time will be put aside for the communication and resolution of the grievance.

Resolution of the grievance may involve a process of facilitation of communication between the persons involved by another academic staff member/Director. The person chosen must be an agreeable person to both persons involved in the grievance.

The student and academic staff member may bring a third party with them to the resolution process to act as a support person.

If the breakdown in relationship between the academic staff member/Director and student cannot be resolved through the above informal resolution process the student and/or academic staff member will be asked if they wish to enter the formal Grievance Procedure and both will be given a copy of GTB’s Policy No 3: Grievance Policy and Procedure and information as to how to activate a formal Grievance Procedure.

Policy No. 3 appendix - Overview 4Statement regarding the handling of complaints relating to Academic Staff Members and Staff Members

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane acknowledges that at times complaints will arise from academic staff members, staff and guest academic staff contracted by GTB. Please note that any staff performance management processes will be dealt with separately from this complaints process.

GTB wishes to acknowledge that any break down in relationship at GTB between, its academic staff, director or committee members needs to be addressed in a sensitive and comprehensive manner and that resolution strategies must be cognisant of the power issues that are inherent in the academic staff/staff–Institute relationship. GTB acknowledges that Directors have a position of authority within the education program in that they contract, observe, give feedback and make payments for work completed to academic staff and staff members.

Accordingly, GTB makes known to its academic staff and staff its willingness to address their issues in a supportive and professional manner. It does this verbally when working with academic staff and staff and in written form in the Staff Handbook. GTB also makes public the academic staff and staff member's right to take their complaint to GTB's formal Grievance Procedure.

Firstly, GTB works towards the resolution of grievances through the Informal Resolution of Difference processes (See Overview 1).

All staff and visiting educators are invited to bring their concerns to the person involved or if this is difficult to another academic staff member or the Director.

When an academic staff or staff member has approached a director with a grievance the director encourages the academic staff or staff member to voice his or her concerns. When this is difficult for the academic staff or staff member, a Director other than the person to whom the grievance is directed may assist the academic staff or staff member to voice their concerns. An academic staff or staff member will be supported to take the issue of his or her concerns to personal therapy in order that he or she may heighten awareness of the issues involved and the matter he or she wishes to voice.

Another academic staff member and/or Director support an academic staff member/Director who is involved in a breakdown of relationship with an academic staff or staff member in order that this academic staff member/Director may work appropriately towards grievance resolution.

Appropriate time will be put aside for the communication and resolution of the grievance.

Resolution of the grievance may involve a process of facilitation of communication between the persons involved by another academic staff member/Director. The person chosen must be an agreeable person to both persons involved in the grievance.

The academic staff or staff member may bring a third party with them to the resolution process.

If the breakdown in relationship between the academic staff/staff member and academic staff member/director cannot be resolved through the above informal resolution process the academic staff or staff member will be asked if they wish to enter into the formal Grievance Procedure and both will be given a copy of GTB's Policy No 3, Grievance Policy and Procedure and information as to how to activate a formal Grievance Procedure.

Policy No 4ACREDIT POLICY

Ratified by the Academic Governance Body 14 December 2017

Purpose

This policy sets out the basis on which credit is awarded for successful completion of subjects towards the courses offered by Gestalt Therapy Brisbane (GTB):

- Graduate Certificate in Gestalt Therapy, a part-time one-year program; and
- Master of Gestalt Therapy, a part-time additional three-year program. The Graduate Certificate in Gestalt Therapy is nested in the Master of Gestalt Therapy.

Access to this policy

This policy is available on the GTB website <http://www.gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au/policies>

Credit points

Credit points are awarded for the successful completion of subjects undertaken toward the above courses. A credit point is a uniform unit of measure of the workload associated with individual subjects. Each credit point is equivalent to approximately 1 hour of student workload/week, incorporating both subject tuition and personal study.

The credit point value for each subject takes account of student workload for various teaching and learning requirements of the subject including attending tuition, undertaking clinical practice and supervision, personal study and assessment tasks and any other teaching/learning strategies appropriate to the subjects.

There are 33 credit points for each year of study, except for Year 1, which commences with a lighter load in semester 1 as set out below, and Year 4 which contains an additional 5 credit point subject in semester 2.

Student workload

Students undertake two subjects each semester covering the theory Gestalt therapy (TG subjects) and the practice of Gestalt therapy (PG subjects). Semester subjects comprise 40 hours tuition, other than semester 1 Year 1 subjects which comprise 32 hours tuition.

Each year, in addition to semester subjects, students are required to undertake a minimum 10 hours of personal therapy (EG subjects).

Practice of Gestalt therapy subjects in Years 2, 3 and 4 require students to undertake clinical practice and supervision both within and in addition to scheduled tuition. The workload requirements in Year 4 are significant and are met through an additional subject: SP400 comprising 20 hours of clinical practice and 5 hours of clinical supervision.

Students are expected to undertake personal study in addition to scheduled tuition. It is recommended that students undertake 3 hours of personal study for every hour of scheduled tuition including participating in year-cohort study groups for 15 hours each semester. Where semester subjects require extra-tuition hours of clinical practice and supervision, the hours of recommended personal study time are commensurately reduced.

Credit point allocation

Semester subjects (other than semester 1 Year 1) comprise up to 160 hours total student workload including 40 hours tuition, extra-tuition practice hours where required and up to 120 hours personal study. This equates to approximately 8 hours student workload/week. Students are awarded 8 credit points for each successfully completed semester subject (other than semester 1 Year 1).

Semester 1 Year 1 subjects comprise up to 128 hours total student workload including 32 hours tuition and 96 hours personal study. This equates to approximately 7 hours student workload/week. Students are awarded 7 credit points for the successful completion of each semester 1, Year 1 subject.

Personal therapy subjects are undertaken over both semesters of the academic year and comprise up to 40 hours total student workload including 10 hours therapy and 30 hours personal study/ preparation and reflection. This equates to approximately 1 hour student workload/week. Students are awarded 1 credit point for each successfully completed personal therapy subject.

The Year 4 additional practice subject (SP400) comprises 100 hours total student workload including 20 hours of clinical practice, 5 hours of clinical supervision and 75 hours personal study/preparation and reflection. This equates to approximately 5 hours student workload/week. Students are awarded 5 credit points for successful completion of this subject.

As each assessment task addresses a significant aspect of Gestalt Therapy education, each assessment task must be passed for a student to be considered to have successfully completed the subject.

Further details regarding student workload are provided in the table below. Specific subject requirements are provided in subject outlines and in Information Packs provided to students at the commencement of the academic year.

Attainment of awards

Successful completion of all subjects and course requirements is required for attainment of the Master of Gestalt Therapy, which equates to 135 credit points for the course.

Successful completion of all Year 1 subjects and requirements is required for attainment of the Graduate Certificate in Gestalt Therapy, which equates to 31 credit points for the course.

Accountabilities

It is the responsibility of the Academic Governance Body to ensure compliance with this policy.

Policy No 4BRECOGNITION OF PRIOR LEARNING
AND THE GRANTING OF CREDIT

Ratified by the Academic Governance Body 14 December 2017

Purpose

This document sets out Gestalt Therapy Brisbane Pty Ltd policy in relation to the Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) for the purposes of granting credit towards the completion of the Master of Gestalt Therapy studied at Gestalt Therapy Brisbane (GTB).

Policy statement

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane will give recognition of prior learning and grant credit for previous study where students transfer from a Gestalt therapy education program approved by Psychotherapy and Counselling Federation of Australia (PACFA) or equivalent into the Gestalt Therapy Brisbane Master of Gestalt Therapy.

The Master of Gestalt Therapy provides graduates with skills in this specific therapeutic model. GTB does not grant credit for study undertaken that is not Gestalt therapy specific or where Gestalt therapy is not the primary emphasis. GTB will only consider granting credit for study undertaken in a Gestalt therapy education program, or in an equivalent accredited program.

Procedure: students wishing to transfer from another institute:

Students who wish to apply for recognition of prior learning and the granting of credit must present a letter of recommendation from their Director of Education, an Academic Transcript of study undertaken, and detail of course curriculum. Upon receipt of these a Director of GTB will make contact, where possible, with the relevant institute or person.

Students who wish to enter the Master program need to fulfil the entry requirements as described in GTB Policy No. 8: Criteria and Procedures for Selection of Students;

Students who wish to enter GTB's Year 4 Master program from a completed Gestalt therapy education program may need to submit their last year of training assessment work for evaluation by the Directors of GTB to ensure that their work is up to Master standard. If the work is not judged to be up to Master standard students wishing to obtain credit for previous study may be asked to enrol in the 3rd or 4th Year of the Master program;

It is important that all students who are granted credit into the GTB Master program are sufficiently prepared to undertake Master level studies. This is important to ensure the success of prospective students and to protect the integrity of the qualification awarded.

Enrolment and successful completion of education at a Gestalt therapy education program does not guarantee admission to GTB;

Previous education at a Gestalt therapy education program must have been completed no more than three years before the date of application to Gestalt Therapy Brisbane; and,

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane will only give recognition of prior learning and credit transfer on the successful completion of whole years of study and requires that each aspect of a student's prior learning within the period credit is sought for must have been successfully completed for the granting of credit to be considered. Due to the integrated structure of theory and practical work over a whole year, GTB does not recognise the completion of individual subject work or semester work.

Procedure: Students who interrupt their studies

Recognition of credit for students who interrupt their studies at GTB is limited in the following ways.

- I. Students must complete their Master studies at GTB within a 7-year period;
- II. Students must take no more than 2 breaks out of the 3-year Master program; and,
- III. Students must not have more than a 3-year break between one year and the next. Students who do not fulfil the requirements of I, II and III may be asked to reenrol in their last year of education.
- IV. Students must enrol in a whole year of study and complete all units for that year to progress to the next year. There is one exception to this rule in Year 4. Students may complete year 4 over two years, enrolling in PG400 Gestalt Practice and Supervision I, EG400 Reflection and Experience of Psychotherapy, TG401 Psychotherapy: Common Clinical Issues and PG401 Gestalt Practice and Supervision II in the first year; and enrolling in TG400 Theory, Research and Practice and SP400 Gestalt Practice and Supervision III in the following year. It is expected that students who engage in their 4th year of study over two years will do that over consecutive years. Students who are unable to do that must ask for an exemption from the Director.
- V. The Directors will be responsible for making a decision about whether a student will be enrolled into the GTB program and at which year the student needs to enter the program.

Decisions regarding the granting of credit

The Directors of GTB are responsible for decisions about recognising prior learning and granting credit. The Directors could seek the advice of the Academic Governance Body. Decisions regarding the recognising of prior learning and the granting of credit will be communicated to applicants in writing in a timely manner.

Students who are dissatisfied with the decision of the Directors may make application to the Academic Governance Body (AGB) for a review of the decision in accordance with Policy No. 3: Grievance Policy and Procedure. Students should provide the AGB with a full copy of their application for credit, all information provided with the decision of the Directors and a statement outlining their reasons why they believe credit should be granted.

All personal information collected by GTB is protected under the Privacy Act 1988 (Commonwealth of Australia). Definitions

Critical incidents are, in the first instance, incidents deemed critical by a participant or observer of an incident.

GTB take every precaution to avoid critical incidents through GTB risk management processes: investigating and analysing the likelihood of events and taking reasonable action to mitigate against the event happening. GTB's Risk Management Policy, Framework and Register must be used in conjunction with this policy.

Critical incidents include, but are not limited to:

- Accidents resulting in injury or potential injury;
- Harassment, sexual harassment and sexual assault;
- Sudden health issues of a serious nature;
- Property or facility malfunctions that create an actual or potential safety or health hazard for students, staff or visitors;
- Incidents occurring in the education program, that are of sufficient concern relating to perceived lack of physical, mental, or emotional safety of participants, including within tuition, clinical practice or supervision or any other tuition-related activity; and
- Threats or events of violence of any sort.

Critical incidents may arise as a result of actions, whether intended or not, by:

- Staff, students, guests and clients of the education program;
- Associates of staff, students, guests and clients of the education program; and
- Unrelated third parties.

Critical incidents may also arise as a result of:

- Wear and tear on property and facilities; and
- Weather and other natural events.

Distress arising from engaging with interpersonal issues

During engaging in the GTB education program, participants can become distressed when working through interpersonal issues. This is regarded as a normal consequence of undertaking the education, and immediate support from academic staff and facilitators is available.

Critical incidents are the uncommon incidents where an academic staff member or student believes:

- a participant is leaving the premises with unresolved immediate issues, and little evidence of sufficient external and internal support for containment; and
- a participant has been the recipient or initiator of an action that raises serious concerns regarding the nature of the interaction in the context of the values of the organisation (e.g. verbal or physical abuse).

Procedures

Where the health or safety of anyone is at immediate risk:

1. A first aid officer should be alerted if on site if the matter relates to injury. NB: all GTB counsellors and therapists are encouraged to hold a current first aid certificate; and/or
2. Emergency services should be contacted immediately.

If a student is threatening to leave the program and the academic staff member judges that the student is not emotionally stable:

1. The academic staff member must suggest that the student stay on the premises until the academic staff member can speak to that person privately;
2. The student will be requested to sit apart from the student body until the academic staff member has been able to speak with them;
3. Academic staff will consider actions that need to be taken for the student, any other individuals and with the student body.

A Critical Incident Report must be completed as soon as is possible after the event.

Action after the critical incident:

1. A Director must be informed of the critical incident within 24 hours. A course of action will be agreed to, which may include:
 - immediate follow up with participants involved;
 - filing a report for subsequent referral of the student to counselling or assistance as required;
 - recommendation that a grievance process be initiated;
 - accessing GTB insurance policies;
 - taking steps to address physical safety issues;
 - reviewing health and safety procedures;
2. The academic staff member who handled the incident will contact the student/s involved in the critical incident within 24 hours to confirm their health and safety; and,
3. A Director will inform the Chair, Corporate Governance Body of the incident and the action that has been taken.

Record

Two copies of the report will be filed. One in the respective student's file and the other in a file that is expressly set aside for the retention of Critical Incident Reports.

Privacy Statement

All personal information collected by Gestalt Therapy Brisbane is protected under the Privacy Act 1988 (Commonwealth of Australia). All information will be treated with the utmost care, being kept strictly confidential within the confines of the educational program. It will not be sold, re-used, rented, loaned or otherwise disclosed to a third part, except where prior written permission is obtained from the individual who supplied the information and to whom the information refers.

Assessment

Assessment is the process of forming a judgment about the quality and extent of student achievement or performance, and therefore by inference is a judgment about the learning itself. Assessment shapes the learning that takes place. What students learn and how they learn it reflects closely the methodology and philosophy of Gestalt therapy and consequently the purposes and aims of the course of study.

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane holds to the importance of formal assessment to enhance learning. Feedback that is clear, informative, timely and relevant when given to students has the potential to improve and promote learning. In addition, formal assessment ensures that GTB meets satisfactory completion requirements in its accredited awards. It is particularly important for GTB in maintaining academic accountability to our accrediting bodies, Tertiary Education Quality and Standards Agency (TEQSA), and the Psychotherapy and Counselling Federation of Australia (PACFA).

Assessment also has the potential to improve the quality of the curriculum offered to students and of evaluating the effectiveness of teaching processes. GTB is committed to evaluating the effectiveness of its teaching and learning processes through a review of its assessment pieces.

Assessment methods take a variety of forms over the four-year program. These include journaling, personal reflection, workbook activities, short answer or multiple-choice questions, research assignments, an annotated bibliography, oral presentations, an academically rigorous Literature Review, supervision of clinical client work, facilitation of group processes and critical analysis of practical work. In addition, GTB uses a competency framework to inform discussion amongst academic staff and students, around student personal and practice development. Students will also be judged on their attendance (90% requirement for both weekend and residential attendance) and contribution to theoretical discussion and in class activities. The assessment of their success in these endeavours will be given to students in the second semester each year meeting with the Year Coordinator or a Director of GTB. The key criterion for choice among methods of assessment is the appropriateness to the learning outcomes.

Assessment criteria

Assessment is criteria based rather than norm referenced and includes individual and collaborative achievement. Assessment criteria are provided for each subject and have been mapped against course and subject learning outcomes and graduate attributes that the course aims to achieve. This ensures that student progress towards the learning outcomes and graduate attributes is measured by the assessment tasks.

Course learning outcomes are specific to requirements to graduate as a Gestalt therapist and are set out in appendix 1. Subject learning outcomes are specific to Gestalt therapy requirements and are provided for each subject within year information documents.

Graduate attributes are the generic skills students achieve through Gestalt therapy studies and are set out in appendix 2. These generic skills comprise broad categories:

- Fundamental skills such as literacy and numeracy appropriate to the level and qualification type;
- Thinking skills such as learning to learn, decision making and problem solving;
- People skills such as working with others and communication skills; and
- Personal skills such as self-direction and acting with integrity.

Assessment of academic English language proficiency

The following assessment elements support assurance of student academic language proficiency:

- Written assessment tasks
 - Criteria for assessing progress toward graduate attribute: Academic Literacy is provided for each piece of written assessment
- Practical assessment tasks
 - Criteria and the tools for assessing progress toward graduate attribute: Effective interpersonal communication and engagement is provided for each practical assessment task
- Engagement in tuition
 - Criteria and the tools for assessing progress toward graduate attribute: Effective interpersonal communication and engagement is provided for each practical assessment task.

Assessment requirements and assessment grading

The requirements for student success are made clear to students in the assessment criteria sheets that are available with each piece of assessment. The overall strategy for assessment is to develop in students the ability to evaluate the quality of their own work to equip them to function as professionals with a commitment to life-long and life wide learning and adult learning principles.

As noted, assessment practices within GTB are based on the general principles of criteria-based assessment. This demands that:

- Desired learning outcomes for a course of study are clearly specified;
- Assessment tasks are designed to indicate progress towards the desired learning outcomes; and,
- Assessment grades are a measure of the extent to which the learning outcomes have been achieved.

The standard of performance that is required for the award of a grade is a judgment that is based on the professional expertise of the various academic staff. GTB academic staff contribute to the assessment processes and are informed by experience with accepted standards, including, where appropriate, standards in other institutions. GTB is committed to benchmarking the quality of its assessment pieces throughout each year and to benchmarking the quality of student work and the standard of grade allocated to specific student work. Relevant academic staff conduct an internal moderation process each year.

There is no pre-determined distribution of grades as the outcome of assessing a group of students.

GTB acknowledges that its students in the four-year program are adult learners and as such must be in control of their own learning within the confines of their busy lives. It also acknowledges that formal academic assessment may raise issues for an individual that makes the completion and submission of assessment work difficult.

It is an expectation that students will submit their assessment items on time.

Extension Requests

Students who ascertain that they cannot complete an assessment item by the due date are to email contact@gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au (GTB) and request an extension. A two-week extension will be given upon this request. Please note that all extension requests must be submitted at least ONE WEEK before an assessment item is due. A formal acknowledgement by email will be given to students as soon as possible after receipt of the initial two-week extension request.

SPECIAL CONSIDERATION

Students can only be granted a further extension beyond the first two-week extension through the submission of a Special Consideration request. This request must be submitted at least one week before the assignment is due. This request must be formally applied for using the Special Consideration protocol identified in Policy No 17: Special Consideration. The granting of Special Consideration is time limited and assignment item limited. It is expected that even with Special Consideration all assignments for a year will be completed by the end of the second week of December. A grade for each student will be recorded at the end of each semester for every subject according to the Grading Table. A document will be generated at the end of each semester that displays this allocation of grading. When a student successfully completes an incomplete subject the appropriate records at GTB and will be adjusted. This adjustment may fall outside of the end of semester time frame.

A formal acknowledgement of the Special Consideration request will follow the process identified in Policy No 17: Special Consideration.

Students who submit assessment item work:

- After the due date without requesting an extension/Special Consideration request as per the conditions above; or,
- After the two-week extension date; or,
- After the date negotiated in the Special Consideration request, will be downgraded on their assignment work by one grade. That is a Distinction will be awarded a Credit grading and a Credit will be awarded a Pass grading. Students who submit work at a Pass Grading will maintain this grading. Students who demonstrate on an ongoing basis that they cannot submit assessment items on time may be asked to give cause as why GTB would consider reenrolment in a subsequent year. Please note that only one Special Consideration request will be granted for each assessment item.

Requests for assignment extensions will not be accepted by any other form of communication than that referenced above.

All First Semester assessment items must be completed by 14 August. All assessment items submitted after this date (when Special Consideration hasn't been given) will receive at the very best a PASS grading and will attract a $100 per assignment late submission fee. Students must submit their assessment with the $100 per assignment late submission fee. If an assessment item which has been granted special consideration is not submitted by the agreed date it will be treated as a late submission and as such will be downgraded and attract the $100 late submission fee.

All Second Semester assessment items must be completed by the end of the Academic Year, that is before the end of the second week of December. Failure to submit assignments by this due date will incur $100 per assessment late submission fee and at the very best a Pass grading. Students must submit their assessment with the $100 per assessment late submission fee. Also, students may incur the following:

- Non-acceptance of assignments, even if student has paid the late submission fee;
- A full or partial reenrolment with subsequent charge for the subjects that are incomplete;
- Non-enrolment in the subsequent year of the education program.

Outstanding assessment Items

Students who do not complete written or practice assessment within the given period can be asked to repeat a year of the education program or an element of the education program. Re-enrolment will attract a charge. The conditions of reenrolment will be determined by the Directors in consultation with the Year Coordinator. These conditions will be outlined in a modified Student Agreement.

Students must complete all attendance and assessment elements of their current year of education before they can proceed to the next year of education.

Recycled Assignment work needs to be completed within the time limit negotiated with a Director or Year Coordinator.

All written assessment work is fully described for students on the criteria sheet. Assessment of work must be based on the requirements of the criteria sheet. The criteria sheet displays a due by date for the submission of the assignment. Students are required to submit their written assignment work on or before the due date. Students are required to attach the criteria sheet to the front of their assignment. Assignments are to be posted or hand delivered to the Institute. Students are also required to submit an electronic copy through the GTB Moodle site. The post mark date will be accepted as the submission date for posted assignments.

Assessment Grading

Assessment grades are generally based on a recycle, pass, pass completed, credit and distinction system. Students must pass all assessment work and meet attendance requirements for one year before they will be admitted into any subsequent years. If a student receives a recycle grading the student must work with the year co-ordinator in the resubmission of the assignment. This recycled assignment must be submitted in a one-month period. Any assignment submitted after the one-month period will be submitted as a late submission. Recycled assignments will receive a maximum pass grading.

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane will issue an academic record when a student completes his or her Graduate Certificate in Gestalt Therapy and Master of Gestalt Therapy at GTB. A student may request an Academic Record at any time throughout their studies for the purposes of employment or additional study. The list of possible results is displayed in the following table.

Grading	Abbreviation	Marking criteria

Incomplete practice or assessment work will have implications for further education

Students who have incomplete written or practice assessment work by the Friday of the second week of December may not be accepted into the next year of the education program. Students who have significant issues that may delay the submission of assessment and practice items may apply for Special consideration as per the Policy No. 17 Special Consideration.

Those students that are granted Special consideration and submit their assessment item/s after the Friday of the second week of December will be charged $100 late submission fee for each late assessment item.

Students who have incomplete assessment work will not be eligible for any of the academic awards given by GTB, or eligible for Intern membership of PACFA or similar professional association, or a recommendation for entry into another accredited Gestalt therapy education program.

Assistance in the engagement in education and the completion of assessment items

Students can expect that academic staff will assist them in understanding the requirements of the education program and assessment and in meeting the expectations around the completion of each assessment item. Time will be allocated during designated education hours to explore assessment requirements and to make these clear to students. Students are given written directions for each assignment item together with a Criteria Sheet describing how correction will occur. Students are also supplied with an Assignment Writing Guide. This guide details written assignment requirements, APA referencing and formatting style conventions and other helpful information about writing an assignment. It is acknowledged that some students find written assessment work particularly challenging. Academic staff will respond to students who request additional assistance.

In addition, students can access Year Coordinators and academic staff for consultation regarding meeting the requirements of the courses offered, or other issues related to their education. This may be done by email, phone or arranged appointment at a time convenient to both student and academic staff. Students will be offered an opportunity to submit a draft of a written assignment to an academic staff member to assist them in growing in their understanding of academic requirements.

It is also recommended that students who have difficulty with academic writing employ the services of a tutor.

Assessment and successful completion of a year of study

To successfully complete a year of study and be eligible to progress to the next year, students must:

- Successfully complete each assessment task of each subject. As each assessment task addresses a significant aspect of Gestalt therapy education, each assessment task must be passed for a student to be considered to have successfully completed the subject. A low pass grading is still considered a pass grading; however, students who receive two low pass gradings for first semester subjects must negotiate a learning plan with their year coordinator to proceed into second semester. Students who have received two low passes in first semester and receive two low pass gradings for second semester subjects will be ineligible to proceed to the next year of education. Two low pass gradings in second semester will result in engagement with the year coordinator who will work with the students on a learning plan to support transition into the next year of study. The year coordinator of the subsequent year will be informed of the learning plan and be asked to engage with the student in this plan.
- Successfully complete each subject; and
- Meet all tuition attendance requirements.

Attendance Requirements

Students are required to attend 90% of face to face education for both the weekends and the residential components. If students suspect that they are not going to complete the 90% proportion of education for both weekends and the residential they are asked to speak to their year coordinator. Students who fall below 90% attendance but not below 80% attendance for both the weekends and the residential components may negotiate to engage in a non GTB course Gestalt therapy workshop. The workshop must be relevant to the year of education and needs to be approved by the Coordinator of the year. The workshop cost must be borne by the student.

Students who do not complete the attendance requirements cannot proceed to the next year of education.

A number of weekends throughout the year are compulsory for the successful completion of the year. Students will be informed of these weekends at the beginning of an education year. Lack of attendance at such a weekend, even if a student completes 90% of the education in the year, will mean that students will be asked to attend this weekend in the following year. This attendance will attract a charge.

Residential Attendance

The Residential is an important element of the GTB program. It provides a unique experiential learning opportunity and contains significant assessment processes. Students are required to attend the residential if they are to proceed to the next level of education. In unforeseen circumstances where a student finds he or she is unable to attend the residential, the student will not be able to proceed into the subsequent year of the education program. However, this student can apply to attend the residential in the next year. In this way the student will fulfil the residential requirements and get to know the cohort they will join in the subsequent year.

Student Support

Students can expect that members of the academic staff of GTB will assist them in understanding the requirements of assessment and education and in meeting the expectations around the completion of each assessment item and in fulfilling the requirements of weekend and residential education.

Students can expect that GTB will have the resources available for students to meet their academic and pastoral needs.

GTB provides the following to meet student need with regard to the successful completion of the educational demands and assessment:

1. Time will be allocated during designated education weekends to explore assessment requirements and to make these requirements clear to students.
2. Students are given an overview of the education program for each year. This overview includes education dates, units to be studied, assessment requirements and a reading list.
3. Students are given written directions for each assignment item together with a Criteria Sheet describing how correction of that assignment will occur.
4. Students are supplied with an Assignment Writing Guide. This guide details written assignment requirements, APA referencing and formatting conventions and other helpful information about writing an assignment.
5. A Year Coordinator will monitor and provide direction to the students within the year cohort, prepare students for assessment deadlines and follow up when students fail to meet deadlines.

Policy No 6C

MODERATION OF STUDENT ASSESSMENT

Ratified by the Academic Governance Body 14 December 2017

Purpose

To promote academic integrity and assure that the Gestalt Therapy Brisbane course taught at Gestalt Therapy Brisbane (GTB) meets its established learning outcomes.

Related policies

- Policy No. 6A: Assessment and Completion of Education

Accessing this policy

This policy is available on the GTB website.

Procedure

The Directors of GTB will appoint a Moderation Coordinator. This will ordinarily be the Secretary of the AGB but may be another appointee with the approval of the AGB.

Moderation will be undertaken by the Moderation Coordinator with the Year Coordinators from GTB.

The Moderation Coordinator will convene moderation meetings each semester.

The Moderation Coordinator will develop a Moderation Plan for the period of each GTB Strategic Plan to ensure that all aspects of the assessment of student learning are reviewed and moderated over time. The Moderation Plan will include review patterns of grading across the cohorts of GTB.

The Moderation Coordinator will consult with the Directors GTB in developing the Moderation Plan, which will be provided to the AGB for review.

The Moderation Coordinator will confirm which assessment items will be moderated and for which particular purposes prior to each meeting. The Moderation Coordinator may do so in consultation with the Directors GTB regarding assessment items that require moderation. Changes to proposed moderation items will prompt a review of the Moderation Plan by the Moderation Coordinator to ensure that, by the end of the period all assessment items have been reviewed and moderated.

During moderation samples of corrected student work will be compared and the consistency of grades will be assessed. Issues regarding the structure, content and instructions to students for the assessment item may also be considered.

Moderation of the Year 4 Literature Review will be undertaken as part of the moderation plan and will include external review of one assessment item from Brisbane. The chosen literature reviews will be of a comparable standard in the opinion of the GTB academic staff members responsible for teaching this subject. The external academic will make an assessment as to the appropriate grading of each piece of work, the quality of feedback offered to each student and the quality of the work as a serious piece of academic writing for a student in the last year of a Master course. The Moderation Coordinator will review feedback from external moderation so that recommendations can be incorporated into Moderation Reports.

A Moderation Report will be prepared by the Moderation Coordinator. This report will contain findings of moderation including any recommendations and will be distributed to the Directors and Year Coordinators of GTB and to any other academic staff member engaged in the teaching or correct of the assessment work.

Where outcomes impact on student grades, these decisions will be communicated to students by the Year Coordinators.

The report will also be sent to the Chairs, GEP Committees for follow up of recommendations regarding the structure, content and instructions to students for assessment items.

Annual reporting to the AGB will include reporting of progress against the Moderation Plan and the outcomes of moderation meetings.

POLICY NO 6DStudent Retention, Completion and Success Policy

Ratified by the Academic Governance Body 9 Apr 2020

Purpose

GTB aims to provide an excellent, rigorous and supportive educational experience for its students. Ensuring student retention, completion and success in their studies at GTB is a core striving of the institute. GTB enjoys a very good retention and completion rate based on its regular benchmarking activities. Indeed, the nature of GTB's positioning as a relatively small provider of Gestalt professional education affords several advantages regarding the institutional drivers of student retention. This paper presents a plan outlining the existing and proposed strategies to ensure the engagement of best practice institutional and student drivers of student retention, completion and success.

Introduction

GTB recognises that engagement in the first year of the program is an important aspect of student retention. Therefore, GTB will;

1. Ensure appropriate and targeted advice for potential student's selection into the first year of the program

Procedure

GTB has a library that is accessible for borrowing by students. The books form a substantial collection of the literature that is available on Gestalt Therapy. There is also a collection of other materials including texts on other counselling and therapy modalities, development psychology, mental health, clinical issues, literature reviews, qualitative research and other general material. The library is divided into a number of sections:

- Frozen Collection;
- Borrowing Collection;
- EBSCO online collection;
- Databases: Gale Group database & Informit database (online databases);
- Library resources on GTB student computers (Shared Media)

Please refer to the Library User Guide to find out the full extent of the GTB library and how to use this library.

Also refer to <https://moodle.gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au/mod/page/view.php?id=824> to find the full detail of GTB library resources.

Books from the Frozen Collection can only be read at GTB and cannot be borrowed. A list of the books available for borrowing and perusing can be found:

On the GTB website: <http://www.gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au/library>

Through EBSCO: <http://search.ebscohost.com>

All students in the educational program are entitled to make use of the library service. The borrowing of books is strictly supervised. GTB expects students to observe library limitations and penalties and to take good care of the library resources.

Students are to abide by the rules of the library in order that the collection of books will be available to all students on an equal basis.

Students can borrow a maximum of the following at any one time:

- 3 Gestalt therapy books or videos
- 3 books from the non Gestalt therapy collections
- 3 journals or photocopied material

Rules of the library all students need to be aware of:

- ⇒ All loans are for a maximum period of 4 weeks (or between one tuition weekend and another if this is longer than 4 weeks);
- ⇒ students can renew or extend a loan only once and only if the material is not being sought by another student; and,
- ⇒ An extension must be sought via email library@gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au on or before the due date of return.

Library Rules & Fines

- A fine of $8.00 on each overdue item will be imposed. (This assumes that the book will not be returned before 4 weeks or the next weekend of tuition).
- A fine of $8.00 will be imposed on each item in excess of the resource allocation. That is 3 Gestalt therapy books, 3 general texts and 3 journals or printed booklets).
- An overdue notice and invoice will be issued to students once a library resources is identified as overdue;
- The borrowing privileges of a student will be suspended once there is an overdue item identified. This suspension will be attached to the overdue notice and invoice.
- A fine will increase to $16.00 for each item borrowed, that is an 8 week period of overdue.
- After the period of 8 weeks GTB will regard the book as lost and students will be charged with the replacement cost of the resource. An invoice will be issued to the student for the cost of the resources and the $16.00 late return fine. This charge must be met even if the book is eventually located.

All library fines need to be paid before GTB will accept a student into a subsequent year of the educational program or issue a Statement of Attendance, Academic Statement or Academic Award.

The library works on an old fashioned card system. At the time of borrowing students need to write their full name clearly on the card and provide the date that they borrowed the item.

Return all items to the locked box in the library area.

The system only works if students are honest.

PLEASE DO NOT STEAL LIBRARY ITEMS.

Use the library system as it has been designed and don't remove books without completing the date of borrowing and your printed name (not your signature). Put your completed card in the box provided.

Please take good care of borrowed books. If books that are returned badly damaged a student may be asked to pay the replacement cost of the items.

The library can be accessed, and books can be returned at any time that GTB is open for an educational weekend or when someone is working in the office. Please enquire as to the available times from the Office Administrator at GTB.

GTB has access to two electronic databases:

1. The CenGage Learning Electronic Data Base. The website for this Electronic Data Base is http://infotrac.galegroup.com/itweb/61q_gestalt?db=EAIM+

2. The Informit Electronic Data Base: which includes (a) Informit Health Collection (b) Informit Humanities and Social Science Collection and (c) Informit Families and Society Collection.

<http://search.informit.com.au>

These Data Bases provide a valuable collection of hundreds of journals. Students will be provided with the passwords at the beginning of each year so they can have remote access to the data bases.

It is important that student written work reflect the latest in academic scholarship and research. Electronic databases are one of the easiest ways to obtain the latest materials on the subject under review. Databases contain local, national, and international academic material on a wide spectrum of subjects. Databases are made up of journal articles, research reports, newspaper articles, theses, reference material, conference papers, some electronic books & more.

Students may need to go beyond the resources of the GTB library and access academic texts and databases at various times during their studies. In particular students will need to access extended library resources when they enrol in TG400 Theory, Research and Practice.

Student who find that GTB's library resources do not meet their need because of the topic they have chosen to research are invited to apply to GTB for a subsidy to support the purchase of resource material or subscription to a public university library. Students may be eligible for an amount of $100 to support their research. Students may apply via email to contact@gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au Students need to supply their receipt to GTB for a refund. As the world becomes more and more technologically dependent hard copy academic books in university libraries become more and more restricted. Students may need to seek for their resources through the internet and at times there will be a cost for these resources.

If a student has any further questions regarding the borrowing of the books or joining a University Library they are asked to make contact with GTB admin.

 7. The prospective student will then be notified of their acceptance or non-acceptance into the program. Successful applicants will also receive at this time information about dates and hours and other helpful details.
 8. Students who are accepted into a program will be asked to complete a student agreement with GTB.

Student self-assessment of suitability to enrol in Gestalt therapy education

Students are informed in their interview of the particular nature of the GTB education program. The education offered through the Gestalt Therapy Brisbane Pty Ltd program is preparing students to be Gestalt psychotherapists. This education does involve students being in touch with their emotions and their experience as a Gestalt therapist's access to present emotional responses and past experiences, form some of the tools used at the service of the client.

GTB is a higher education institution and not a healing centre. Although personal transformation does and can occur for students, students are asked to make a decision that they have the emotional stability that enables them to enter into the rigour of higher education. A student may need to consult their medical practitioner to seek advice as to whether they are emotionally robust enough to engage in experiential and emotional engendering experiences. If at the time of interview a Director or academic staff member of GTB suspects the student may not be emotionally stable they may request that the student provide a statement from a medical practitioner that they would be able to engage in the course. GTB's course outline requires that all students engage in a minimum of 10 hours of personal therapy per year to support their learning. Students who think they need extended therapy for personal issues need to seek this.

GTB's involvement in psychotherapy with students are clearly outlined in the PACFA Code of Ethics. "Dual and multiple relationships....represent a conflict of interest. Conflicts of interest are to be avoided.. the concurrent roles of trainer, supervisor and therapist are seen as completely distinct and practitioners are advised to avoid this form of dual relationship wherever possible." (<http://www.pacfa.org.au/wp-content/uploads/2014/04/Interim-Code-of-Ethics-2015.pdf>)

Progression into the Master of Gestalt Therapy program after completion of Year 1

The successful completion of Year 1 educational program does not automatically entitle a student to progress into the Master of Gestalt Therapy course. The Year Coordinator or a Director of GTB will invite students into this course. The decision will be made by the Year Coordinator, academic staff and Directors and will consider the following:

- a) The academic experience and skill of the students and whether it is judged the student has the capacity to engage in further Higher Education;
- b) The capacity of the student to hold their emotional responses in a way that means that they can be available for feedback from other students and GTB educators. The capacity of a student to hold their emotional responses while remaining available for communication with GTB academic staff will give an indication of whether a student will have that capacity whilst sitting with a client.
- c) Successful completion of all elements of the Graduate Certificate program and an aptitude and interest in Gestalt therapy.

Termination of enrolment

GTB acknowledge that at times the enrolment of students needs to be terminated.

Due process will be accorded to all students in the termination process and students will be informed of the reasons for such termination. Termination of enrolment of a student may be made in any of the following circumstances:

- a) Where the student has outstanding tuition fees for a period of more than 2 months and has not entered a payment plan with the Directors of GTB or has breached the terms of an existing agreement. Please refer to Procedures No 21: Administrative Arrangements, Managing Student Payment of Fees and Dealing with Bad and Doubtful Debts in this Policy and Procedures Handbook;
- b) Where a Director or a representative deem that the student does not possess suitable qualities to remain in the program or that their academic work is not at pass level or the attendance level is below that required for the course. Movement from one year to another is not an automatic process and students may be asked to terminate at this or any other stage of the program. Students who are assessed by Directors and academic staff to lack the suitable qualities to remain in the program will be given written warning that they are not meeting the necessary requirements. The Directors will respect the following process:
 - i. Students who are at risk of not successfully engaging in the program will be identified by the Directors in consultation with GTB Academic Staff at Directors and Staff meetings that address student issues;
 - ii. Students who have not succeeded in their academic writing or practical application will be required to recycle their work and will be offered assistance to achieve a pass result. A low pass grading is still considered a pass grading; however, students who receive two low pass gradings for first semester subjects must negotiate a learning plan with their year coordinator in order to proceed into second semester. Students who receive two low pass gradings for second semester subjects will be ineligible to proceed to the next year of education.
 - iii. A student who is judged to be unsuitable to the program will be given written feedback that outlines the detail of their unsuitability. This written feedback will be given at an appropriate time within the program e.g. at the end of a semester period and it will be followed up within no more than two weeks by a face to face interview with a Director from GTB. This feedback will be accompanied by a warning that because of the issues raised the student is in danger of having their enrolment terminated. The student will also be given the most likely termination time e.g. at the end of the year. A warning of the termination of enrolment will be at least three months prior to termination and will provide an opportunity for the student to address the issues raised. It is noted that this timeline can only be followed when students submit assessment work on time;

- iv. A warning of impending termination will not automatically result in termination if a student has made sufficient movement towards addressing the issues that have initiated the termination warning. A student will be offered support in order to maintain their enrolment within the program; and,
 - v. Directors will inform a student of termination in both written and oral communications. It is the intent of Directors that termination occurs in a way that students can move beyond Gestalt therapy education at GTB in a positive and life enhancing way. The Directors acknowledge that it may not always be possible to terminate a student's enrolment in a way that pleases the student.
- d) Where a student demonstrates consistently that they do not have the capacity to hold their emotional responses in order to receive feedback from GTB educators, or be present to members of their cohort and/or to remain available for their practice clients in a way that hold them within a therapeutic relationship.
 - e) Where the student's behaviour in relation to other students or staff or to the premises constitutes a criminal or unlawful act e.g. assault, harassment, stalking, wilful damage, theft, etc.;
 - f) Where the student's behaviour, in the opinion of the Directors, or their representatives, harms the good name or reputation of GTB or is deemed to be inappropriate or unethical behaviour for a student.

In circumstances a), b) and c) above, students will be given a warning that their behaviour is inappropriate and threatens their enrolment within the program. Students will be given the rationale as to why GTB will take the action of terminating their enrolment.

In addition, a Director holds the right in certain circumstances to terminate a student's enrolment when behaviour is extreme and unsafe. Students will be given the rationale as to why the GTB has taken the action it has.

Students are entitled to justice and due process in all their interactions with GTB. If students believe they are unfairly treated when asked to terminate their enrolment they will be invited to follow the grievance procedures that are established by Gestalt Therapy Brisbane in Policy No 3.

Payment of Fees

GTB courses are conducted as integrated programs over a full academic year. Students are required to enrol for a complete whole year of the education program. Students are required to pay their fees semester by semester.

Students are required to pay fees if they do not withdraw from the program before the census date of the semester they are studying. Census dates are communicated to students on the GTB website.

Year 4 students may defer TG400 and SP400 subjects for one year. Payment for these subjects will be made in the year the student enrolls in the subject.

Satisfactory completion of educational requirements includes full payment of fees, late submission fines, return of overdue library books and overdue library fines. GTB will not issue awards to students with overdue fees or overdue library items or library fines. Students who have particularly significant amounts of overdue fees will not be admitted into the next semester or next year of the program.

Assistance with fees

Students may negotiate a payment plan other than the one displayed on the student agreement. This payment plan needs to be negotiated with the office administrator.

Students who are having difficulty paying their fees are asked to immediately make contact with GTB and negotiate a payment plan that will work for them and the institute.

Fee refunds - Students withdrawing from the program

GTB recognises that at times due to special circumstance students will need to withdraw from the program before the completion of their year of study. Please note that students who have accessed the FEE-HELP loan scheme should be dealt with through Policy 9B Students Fees: FEE-HELP

Students who pay their fees directly may apply for a refund to the Gestalt Educational Processes Committee (GEP) of their campus in the following circumstances.

1. If they withdraw from their studies prior to the census date. The census date for each semester is published on the GTB website.
2. If they withdraw from their studies after the census date or they have not completed the requirements of the unit and special circumstances apply, that are:
 - Beyond their control;

- Do not make their full impact on them until on, or after, the census date; and,
- Make it impracticable for them to complete the requirements for the unit.

Students need to make their request within 12 months from withdrawing from the course. The application should be in writing and the application should contain:

- The student's name and current address;
- The subject/s, semester and year to which the student is applying for a refund; and,
- The special circumstances with documentation as to why the student considers that he/she is eligible to receive a refund. Documentation could include, but is not limited to, a medical certificate or statement from a counsellor, employer or independent member of the community, which details when the student's medical condition or personal circumstances began and how it has affected the student's ability to study.

GTB has the discretion to waive the 12 months time limit for applying for a refund if satisfied that the application could not have been made within the time limit.

The GEP Committee will consider the student's application within 10 working days. Applicants will be notified of the decision within a further 10 working days.

Fee refunds - Students asked to leave the program

Students who have been asked to leave the program will be given upon leaving a refund of those fees for which they are entitled. Refunds will be exclusive of the education participated in by students after the census date.

A student will receive written notice of a decision in relation to fee refunds (including any amount to be refunded) and reasons for the decision. The student will be informed of how to submit a valid request for a review of this decision and who to contact to answer further questions.

Right of review

Students who express dissatisfaction with the refund amount offered by the GEP Committee may seek a review from one of the Directors. Such requests will be deemed to have triggered the GTB Grievance Procedure and must be made within 45 days from the day he/she first receives notice of the outcome of the initial request. The review request needs to include:

- The student's name and current address;
- The subject/s, semester and year to which the student is applying for a review of the decision not to refund fees; and,
- The specific reasons for seeking the review.

Definitions

Cheating: Seeking to obtain an unfair advantage in written or practical work required to be submitted or completed for assessment.

Collusion: Unauthorised collaboration on assessable work with another person or persons.

Contract Cheating: When a student employs a third party to undertake their assessment.

Plagiarism: To take and use another person's ideas and or manner of expressing them and to pass them off as one's own by failing to give appropriate acknowledgement. This includes material from any source, staff, students or the Internet. It can be published and unpublished works.

Plagiarism occurs when students fail to acknowledge that the ideas of others are being used. Specifically, it occurs when:

- Other people's work and/or ideas are paraphrased and presented without a reference;
- Other students' work is copied or partly copied;
- Phrases and passages are used verbatim without quotation marks and/or without a reference to the author or a web page;
- A student relies fully on the work of another student in the formulation of group work or written work; and,
- Lecture notes are reproduced without due acknowledgement.

It is the Student's responsibility to:

- Submit only work that is their own or that properly acknowledges the ideas, interpretations, words or creative works of others;
- Avoid lending original work to others for the purpose of the other taking ideas and content from the work;
- Be clear about assessment conditions for assessment items;

- Be clear about what is appropriate referencing and the consequences of inappropriate referencing; and,
- Discourage others from plagiarising by observing the practices above.

Academic staff at GTB have a duty to educate students about the APA referencing conventions used at GTB for their written and oral work and provide clear examples of what is acceptable. Academic staff also need to also ensure they understand what plagiarism is and ensure that students are aware of GTB's Plagiarism Policy. It is the responsibility of academic staff of GTB to:

- Inform all students of appropriate referencing techniques and provide clear examples of what is acceptable;
- Clearly explain academic expectations and what constitutes plagiarism to students in course profile literature;
- Set appropriate conditions for group work and make clear the distinction between group work and individual work; and,
- Cultivate, with their students, a climate of mutual respect for original work.

An academic staff member who suspects that plagiarism has occurred must produce evidence (through identifying the source) to support their allegation and present this to a Director.

A student who it is thought has plagiarised will be provided with the opportunity to respond and will be asked to meet with a Director to discuss the matter. The Director is required to put the matter to the student, identify the passages that are alleged to be plagiarised and their source. The Director must decide whether or not they believe that plagiarism was likely to have been intentional or unintentional. The Director will record any statements made or not made by the student that indicate that the plagiarism was intentional rather than unintentional.

If the student is unable to provide a satisfactory explanation of the correspondence between the student's work and the sources identified by the Director, it will be assumed that plagiarism was done with intention to cheat.

Findings regarding intent

If the failure to acknowledge the ideas of others was not intentional, the only offence the student has committed is the academic misdemeanour of failing to reference a source correctly. There will be instances when a student unintentionally fails to cite sources or to do so adequately. For example, a student;

- May clearly recognise the need for referencing but references carelessly or inadequately;
- Has undertaken extensive research but, in the process, loses track of the source of some material; or,
- Is ignorant of the APA referencing academic conventions.

A student who is guilty of academic misdemeanour may be required to correct the error/s made.

If a Director is reasonably satisfied that the plagiarism was, more likely than not, done with the intention to obtain an unfair advantage in assessment, the matter will be named as intentional plagiarism.

If a Director names that a piece of work was completed through plagiarism the student will be given a warning and asked to resubmit the relevant piece of work. No more than a Pass grading will be awarded to a student who has resubmitted work after a plagiarism offence has been found against that student. Students who continue to be found to have plagiarized their work will be asked to withdraw from the course.

A student's file will record any warnings with regard to plagiarism or cheating and the outcomes (if any) of an accusation of plagiarism. The student will have access to this information and any subsequent allegations of plagiarism that are made against the student.

If a student does not agree with the outcome of the finding made against them and expresses this disagreement they will be invited to take recourse through following GTB's Policy No 3: Grievance Policy and Procedures.

Introduction

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane holds a commitment to high-quality learning and teaching and to meeting the TEQSA Threshold Standards. This Policy document articulates the broad principles underlying learning and teaching in an experiential tradition at GTB. The teaching and learning environment offered at GTB rests on Gestalt therapy principles, that is, the philosophies of existential-phenomenology and holism and associated dialogical and experiential processes.

Existential phenomenology is a philosophical method with its roots in the work of Husserl, Heidegger, and Merleau-Ponty. The method places an emphasis on the exploration of a person's actual being, existence and reality (ontology) prior to developing an analysis of knowledge about that existence (epistemology). This translates to an investigation of a student's being-in-the-world or their life-world as they move through their education.

Holism postulates that each student is inherently moving to wholeness and that everyone needs to be considered as a whole and in relationship to his or her mind, body, emotions and spirit. GTB is concerned with the education of the whole person and pays regard to each student's personal growth, self-understanding, intellectual development and interpersonal skill enhancement.

A dialogical relationship respects the unique personhood of each student. GTB enters into an engagement with each student so that they will feel listened to and understood. Such a relationship enhances the learning potential and opens up a student to life enhancing change.

The design of the courses are consistent with an experiential learning model outlined by Prof. David Kolb, and frequently used in adult education. The four components of learning and how they are incorporated are:

- Concrete Experience: gained through participation in group work, as a client in practice sessions, and personal therapy.
- Abstract Conceptualisation: gained through didactic teaching and written assignments.

- Reflective Observation: gained through observation of practice sessions, and reflective assignments focusing on the relationship between theory and their practice.
- Active Experimentation: gained through acting as a student therapist and as the equivalent of an ‘intern’ in supervised practice in final years.

Experiential processes also build on Kurt Lewin’s experiential learning theory. This theory holds to teaching and learning being an integration of theory and practice. This teaching and learning practice is described as a cyclical pattern of experience, reflection, conceptualization, action and further experience.

Historically, Gestalt therapy has been influenced by both field theory and system theory with the emphasis more recently being placed on field theory. That influence requires Gestalt practitioners to be aware, and to promote an awareness of the environments in which people are situated. Gestalt therapy holds that a person is inseparable from their environment, context or situation. GTB recognises that the contemporary cultural context includes systemic conditions that marginalise and exclude people from access to support and resources. Such exclusion and marginalisation is often based on a person’s age, domestic violence experiences, experience of disability, gender identity, mental illness, race, and/or other attributes. GTB sees that some of those systemic conditions in the contemporary context promote “stories of separation” (Fairfield, 2018) in our culture. Those stories separate, divide and dehumanise people. GTB is fundamentally a Higher Education institute whose main focus is teaching the skills and attributes of Gestalt therapy practice. However, it is committed to providing a quality teaching and learning experience through acknowledging and attending to field issues in the learning context. In meeting this commitment GTB draws on contemporary Gestalt principles to facilitate “stories of connection” (Fairfield, 2018) within the learning context. Those stories involve practices that build compassion and are humanising, even in difference. It will do this through the following processes:

- Drawing on Gestalt’s dialogical-relational principles in the learning context
- Specifically facilitating (where appropriate) a collaborative relating and resonance process
- Allocating specific teaching time within the established curriculum for training in working with particular populations, including but not limited to:
 - Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander peoples,
 - those who experience disability,
 - and those who experience mental illness
- Facilitating people’s difference within a collaborative relational model
- Collaborating with stakeholders and experts in working with particular groups and populations
- Engaging with academic staff to support the development and maintenance of the skills of collaborative relating, resonance and sensitive groupwork practice as a part of the learning and teaching process.

GTB prides itself on graduating high quality Gestalt practitioners who can take their place in private psychotherapy practice, as professionals in community or government agencies, in the corporate world, and other relevant fields. This is achieved through a thorough integration of theory and practice in our educational program. Our academic staff introduce students to Gestalt therapy through attention to both educational structures and processes, integrating theory and experiential learning to support students’ development of their knowledge and level of practice competence.

Maybe there needs to be a section here about the design of the course.

Learning Outcomes and Assessment

The learning outcomes and assessment for each unit of education in the Graduate Certificate in Gestalt Therapy and the Master of Gestalt Therapy are articulated and mapped in documents entitled (Name of Unit) Assessment of Learning Outcomes and Graduate Attributes. The outcomes for each unit of study hold both discipline related and generic outcomes including specific knowledge and skills and their application to the practice of Gestalt therapy, generic skills and their application in the context of the practice of Gestalt therapy, knowledge and skills required for employment and further study including membership in a professional association and skills in independent and critical thinking for life-long learning. GTB's learning outcomes are consistent with the Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) levels 8 for the Graduate Certificate in Gestalt Therapy and 9 for the Master of Gestalt Therapy.

GTB's assessment of student achievement is achieved through both an aggregation of assessments at unit level and the specific assessment of a capstone unit, TG400 Theory, Research and Practice.

- Encourage the questioning and criticism of accepted views and theories and thus cultivate in students critical and independent thought; and

- Implementing the Cycle of Improvement Process detailed in the GTB Strategic Planning Plan, Implement, Review, Improve cycle;

- Benchmarking courses, units, resources, facilities against other similar courses and institutes including Gestalt therapy education overseas.

GTB practices

GTB has built up a number of practices since its beginning in 2008. These practices aim to acknowledge the learning group and support the development of the Gestalt therapy community and our cocreated culture. They are open to review by academic staff but until reviewed it is expected that they will be continued.

1. Acknowledgment of Country: A student or academic staff member will acknowledge that the land upon which GTB engages in its education program was first held by Australia's indigenous people;
2. Lighting of candle: At the beginning of each day of education students are asked to light a candle and to express an intention for contact for all for that learning period.
3. Check in: Following the acknowledgment of country and the lighting of the candle with intent students and academic staff are given time to make contact with one another. This is a discrete activity that aims to bring all participants into the learning process. Usually, it will be a short process where all are acknowledged by sharing something that is relevant for them for the day. It is never an expectation that everyone needs to speak, however, anyone who chooses not to speak in the check in activity will be acknowledged by the academic staff member. It is not appropriate to pay attention to any particular person during this process with undue time.

Policy No 16B

RISK MANAGEMENT FRAMEWORK

Ratified by the Corporate Governance Body 6 January 2015

Introduction

This document outlines the Risk Management Framework for Gestalt Therapy Brisbane Pty Ltd. A Risk Management Policy and Risk Register form part of this framework. They should be read in conjunction with this document.

Risk management is the systematic management of activities that involve a material degree of risk of loss or other damage to the Institute. The purpose of this framework is to ensure that risk identification, assessment and treatment are incorporated into the planning and management processes of the organization to minimize risk and improve performance. Risks can emanate from internal and external sources. Risks can include issues such as client dissatisfaction, adverse publicity, physical safety and security of staff, low performing management and staff, equipment or computer failure, legal and contractual matters and fraud and natural disasters. It is not possible to have a totally risk free environment. Many decisions involve managing risks according to the Institute's assessment of what constitutes an acceptable level of risk and its judgments about the costs and benefits of particular courses of action.

Risk Management Framework

The Institute's objectives in managing risks are to:

- ensure that the major risks faced by the Institute are identified, understood and appropriately managed by implementing measures to mitigate against risk;
- ensure that the Institute's planning and operational processes appropriately prioritise and treat risks as part of strategic and operational planning activities; and
- create an environment where Institute staff take responsibility for identifying and managing risk.

An effective Risk Management Framework is not only good business practice but provides organisational resilience, confidence and benefits, including:

- Provides a rigorous decision-making and planning process;
- Provides the Institute with the ability to respond to unexpected threats;
- Takes advantage of opportunities and provides competitive advantage;
- Equips staff with tools to anticipate changes and threats that face the Institute and to allocate appropriate resources;
- Provides assurance to the Corporate Governance Body, management and stakeholders that critical risks are being managed appropriately within the Institute; and
- Enables better business resilience and compliance management.

Gestalt Therapy Brisbane's approach to the identification and treatment of risks is in accordance with the Australian & New Zealand Risk Management Standard ISO 31000:2009.

Key steps

1. Consider what can go wrong (risk identification)
2. Determine how bad the outcome would be – (consequences)
3. Determine how likely it is to happen – (likelihood)
4. Combine the consequence rating and the likelihood rating, to calculate the inherent risk level (rating)
 - Consider internal controls
 - Determine residual risk rating
5. Make a decision on the overarching treatment (risk decision)

6. Determine how the issue can be treated based on the risk appetite of the organisation (risk treatment)

Risk Register

The Risk Management Register (the Register) is an integral part of the overall planning and review processes of the Institute. Risks are identified through conducting SWOT analyses as outlined in the Business Plan and holding brainstorming sessions amongst staff and executive. The Risk Register allows the Institute to assess the risk in context with the overall business strategy and help record the controls and treatment of those risks.

Categories of risk

The following broad categories are used to assist with identification of risk.

- Organisational & Operational
- Regulatory Compliance
- Workplace Health & Safety
- Financial
- Stakeholders
- Reputation
- Harassment and Sexual Harassment

Ratings

Inherent Risk

The likelihood of the risk occurring needs to be established, as well as the impact rating, should the risk occur. The tables in Appendix 2 are used to establish the inherent risk rating by working through the details for each risk identified and entered into the Risk Register. A rating is given for likelihood and for the impact.

See Appendix 2 Table of likelihood ratings and Impact ratings = Inherent risk rating

The matrix format in the Table of Risk Ranking is used to determine the overall rating/rank of each risk as Extreme, High, Moderate or Low, after the likelihood and impact rating have been determined. The inherent risk rating represents the level of risk in the absence of a control environment and is arrived at after measuring the likelihood and the impact of an event occurring.

TABLE OF RISK RANKING

Likelihood	Consequences
	Insignificant	Minor	Moderate	Major	Catastrophic
Almost Certain	Medium	High	High	Extreme	Extreme
Likely	Medium	Medium	High	High	Extreme
Possible	Low	Medium	Medium	High	High
Unlikely	Low	Low	Medium	Medium	High
Rare	Low	Low	Low	Medium	Medium

Internal Controls

Once risks are identified, the adequacy of controls must be considered within the context of the Institute's risk appetite at the time. This will vary with strategic and operational strategies, from year to year depending on circumstances. Risks categorized as high or greater (or medium or greater) will be submitted to the Corporate Governance Body to monitor and determine the extent of appropriate mitigating actions.

Risk appetite is the amount of risk, on a broad level, that the Institute is willing to accept and should reflect:

- the Institute's objectives and stakeholder demands;
- capacity to take on risk and degree of failure that would be accepted;
- risk management philosophy (per location, project, process, etc where applicable);
- sector and market conditions.

Internal controls utilized by the institution need to be considered and assessed against the four control criteria to determine the level of control that applies to the identified risk. Once a judgement has been made about the level of control, then the residual risk rating can be calculated.

TABLE OF CONTROL LEVELS

Level of Control	Audit Definition
Good	A high degree of reliance can be place on the system of internal control. Compensating controls are in place such that even if part of the system breaks down, the four control criteria will probably still be met.
Satisfactory	The controls can be relied upon; however, some improvements to controls can be made.
Marginal	The system can generally be relied upon in most circumstances but there are some circumstances where one or more of the four control criteria may not be met.
Weak	The system of internal control cannot be relied upon to meet the four control criteria. If there has not already been a significant breakdown, it is only a matter of time before this occurs.

The four control criteria are:

- Reliable and accurate information.
- Compliance with policies, plans, procedures, laws, regulations and contracts.
- Safeguarding of assets.
- Economic and efficient use of assets.

Residual Risk

A Residual Risk rating is given after the level of internal control has been assessed. The priority rating is then applied to determine the urgency of the actions that are required.

Risk Decision

Once the residual risk rating is known, the overarching treatment of the risk needs to be decided based on the table below. The following overarching options are available for treating risks and may be applied individually or in combination, with due consideration of risk appetite.

Avoid the risk	Not to proceed with the activity or choosing an alternative approach to achieve the same outcome. Aim is risk management, not aversion.
Mitigate	Reduce the likelihood - Improving management controls and procedures.
	Reduce the consequence - Putting in place strategies to minimise adverse consequences, e.g. contingency planning, Business Continuity Plan, liability cover in contracts.
Transfer the risk	Shifting responsibility for a risk to another party by contract or insurance. Can be transferred as a whole or shared.
Accept the risk	Controls are deemed appropriate. These must be monitored, and contingency plans developed where appropriate.

Prioritising risks

The purpose of prioritising the risk is to determine the priority of the treatment required and the level of management to oversee the actions. The risk score determines the priority, for example Extreme = high priority. Executive need to determine any priority within each score.

Risk Score	What should I do?
Extreme	Immediate action required
High	Action plan required, senior management attention needed
Medium	Specific monitoring or procedures required, management responsibility must be specified
Low	Manage through routine procedures. Unlikely to need specific application of resources.

Monitoring and Reporting

Reports are presented to the Corporate Governance Body for ongoing operational review of the Risk Register and conducting risk assessments for specific projects where relevant. The Corporate Governance Body also monitors the Institute’s activities and strategic planning to ensure compliance with the Risk Management Framework. Risks will be reviewed and analysed as specified in the Risk Management Policy.

Appendix 1 Definition of Terms

Consequence - The outcome of an event expressed qualitatively or quantitatively, being a loss, injury, disadvantage or gain. There may be a range of possible outcomes associated with an event.

Control - Any action taken by management, the Corporate Governance Body, and other parties to manage risk and increase the likelihood that established objectives and goals will be achieved.

Stakeholders - Those people and organisations who may affect, be affected by, or perceive themselves to be affected by, a decision or activity.

Note: Definitions are based on the Australian & New Zealand Risk Management Standard AS/NZS 4360:2004.

Appendix 2 Rating Tables

GTB provides support services to assist students throughout their studies. Whilst advice and recommendations may be made to a student, it is ultimately the student's responsibility to access these services as appropriate.

3.0 Policy

Special Consideration is intended for a student who is prevented by serious and unavoidable disruption from completing any unit requirements in accordance with their ability.

All students have the right to submit an application for Special Consideration. For an application to be valid, the student must have been performing satisfactorily in the unit prior to experiencing serious and unavoidable disruption.

All Students should consider if they require an Extension request (two weeks only) see Policy 6A, prior to apply for Special Consideration (more than two weeks). Please note that both extension and special consideration requests must be submitted at least ONE WEEK before an assessment item is due.

4.0 Definition

GTB defines serious and unavoidable disruption to studies as resulting from an event or set of circumstances that:

- a) Could not have reasonably been anticipated, avoided or guarded against by the student; and
- b) was beyond the student's control; and
- c) caused substantial disruption to the student's capacity for effective study and/or the completion of required work; and
- d) substantially interfered with the otherwise satisfactory fulfillment of unit or course requirements; and,
- e) was of at least one weekend and three consecutive residential days duration within a study period.

GTB definition of serious and unavoidable disruption explicitly excludes acute problems. GTB defines acute problems as those involving less than one weekend or three consecutive residential days within a year of education. In these cases, the student is responsible for contacting the relevant Year Coordinator so that a local solution may be discussed.

GTB reserves the right to determine if a Special Consideration application should be considered and any subsequent action to be taken.

GTB has the right to determine the deadline for submission of a Special Consideration application. All special consideration applications must be submitted at the earliest possible date and before the end of the semester in which the reason for Special Consideration has occurred.

All applications will be considered on a case-by-case basis and full consideration will be given to the particular circumstances of the individual student. Students must submit a formal application for Special Consideration by completing the Special Consideration Form. Special Consideration applications must be supported by evidence to demonstrate the severity of the circumstance(s) and that substantial disruption has been caused to the student's capacity for effective study.

All evidence relating to a Special Consideration application will be kept in accordance with legislative requirements.

Only the academic staff involved in processing Special Consideration applications will have access to the student's application.

It is the student alone who can determine whether it is appropriate to apply for Special Consideration, as they are the only person aware of their individual circumstances.

It is the student who is responsible for notifying GTB of unavoidable disruption at the earliest possible convenience.

Special Consideration applications must include specific details of how the unavoidable disruption affected previously satisfactory work by the student.

GTB determines that some circumstances routinely encountered by students are not acceptable grounds for claiming Special Consideration. These grounds include, but are not limited, to:

- a) Routine demands of employment or family life;
- b) routine family problems such as tension with or between parents, spouses, and other people closely involved with the student;
- c) difficulties adjusting to GTB life, to the self-discipline needed to study effectively, and the demands of academic work;
- d) stress or anxiety associated with examinations, required assignments or any aspect of academic

- work;
- e) routine need for financial support; and,
 - f) routine demands of sport, clubs and social or extra-curricular activities.

Conditions existing prior to commencing a year of study or prior to GTB census dates are not grounds for Special Consideration. The student is responsible for managing their workload in light of any known or anticipated problems. Students are responsible if conditions exist prior to enrolment in a year of education to withdraw from GTB by the advertised census dates. If a student does not withdraw prior to a census date when there is a condition existing prior to commencing a year of study they are liable for the full payment of fees. The student is responsible for contacting their Year Coordinator if they have a chronic condition.

To apply, use the online form on the GTB website under Student Space

(<https://www.gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au/student-space>).

4.1 GTB/ Practice

GTB will give Special Consideration to students with special needs by extending the time it takes for them to successfully complete the education requirements. This applies to the submission of assessment work and the attendance at weekend education and the residential/s. In granting a Special Consideration request GTB will prolong or suspend enrolment while students meet extraordinary needs, for example the death of a close relative, family crisis, individual health crisis, etc.

An extension of time to complete education requirements will necessarily come with reenrolment and an educational fee. GTB may add to this special consideration practice by adjusting the fee level that will be paid over this extended time.

However, GTB takes seriously its responsibility to ensure that the therapists that graduate are fully trained and competent. Thus, GTB won't exempt students from non-submission/completion of any assessment item, non-attendance at weekends below 90% without some make up education time, (non-attendance below 80% means an incomplete year), and non-attendance at the residential to a 90% level.

The Directors in consultation with the relevant Year Coordinator is responsible on behalf of Academic Governance Body for making decisions about granting Special Consideration. The Directors will report to the Academic Governance Body when Special Consideration has been granted.

The student has the right to retract a request for Special Consideration.

Experiential work within tuition is facilitated and observed by academic staff.

Study Groups

Students in Years 1-3 are strongly encouraged to engage with other members of their cohort in study groups (for 30 hours per year). This group work provides further opportunity for students to practice and reflect on their learning. Study groups are self-directed. Year 1 students are asked to use the Introduction to Gestalt Therapy Manual to guide study group discussion and are required to have at least one study group session attended by a member of academic staff or an appropriately appointed person. Guidelines for study groups are provided at appendix 1 and 2 of this policy.

Clinical practice and supervision

The Master of Gestalt Therapy builds student experience as a therapist over the four-year course:

- Students commence by experiencing Gestalt therapy in individual and group settings in 1st year.
- In Year 2 they are introduced to the experience of sitting in the role of therapist with their year cohort and then move to working with clients in short sessions with academic staff supervision via video.
- In Year 3 they continue to sit in the role of therapist with members of their cohort and they continue working with clients for one-hour sessions, under the close supervision of academic staff both in direct supervision and in video supervision. Two weekends during third year are devoted to practice with real clients. During these weekends academic staff give direct supervision to students as they work with clients.
- In Year 4 students commence practice as a therapist with professional supervision from academic staff. Some of this supervision is given after supervisors sit in and watch the student with client/s.

Practice requirements for undertaking clinical practice and supervision, including ensuring client consent to participating in clinical practice, are provided at appendix 3 of this policy.

Guidelines for Study Groups Year 1

Introduction

Whilst enrolled as a student at Gestalt Therapy Brisbane you are required to engage personally in the study of Gestalt theory and practice. It is recommended that you undertake approximately three hours of study for every hour of tuition to meet the course requirements. Your study group gives you the opportunity to fulfil 30 hours of this study in a supportive group setting.

Purpose

In Year 1 the main purpose of the self-directed study group meetings is to give you the opportunity to engage with the theoretical concepts of Gestalt therapy, practise the skills that are basic to the understanding of these theoretical concepts, support one another in developing your understanding and practice and provide support to one another for engagement in the program. When you engage with the whole group you will be also practicing your group process skills. GTB encourages you to build a culture of respect for one another in your group engagement. Conflict may arise in your group. GTB uses the Guidelines for Collaborative Relating. Discuss these in your study group and identify how you will use these when conflict emerges. You may also like to visit the Conflict Resolution Network site if your skills are rusty <http://www.crnhq.org>. You are asked over this year to develop your relational skills and commit to relational engagement with your group.

Suggestions for Pre Engagement

- Make a decision about how you will make contact with one another.
- Share contact details and make it clear amongst yourselves how often and for what purposes you will make contact. Please note that this may need to be renegotiated over the year.
- Choose a leader for each of your study group sessions. Change your leadership for each session or every 2/3 hours.
- Make a collaborative decision about the focus of the group's work for each study group session.
- Structure the time available to meet the learning needs of the group.

Suggestion for When You Meet

- Take some time to address group forming issues and check in with one another.
- Read a section of your Graduate Certificate in Gestalt Therapy Practical Education Manual: Communication, Counselling, Group Facilitation: A Gestalt Approach.
- Discuss theoretical aspects.
- Engage in an exercise that is described in your Introduction to Gestalt Therapy Manual.
- Share your response to what you are reading, discussing and experimenting with.
- Process what may be unfinished from a weekend workshop or other aspect of training.
- Finish the meeting with a check out. This could be a statement about how you experience the meeting and how you feel right now.

EACH MEMBER OF THE STUDY GROUP NEEDS TO TAKE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE SUCCESSFUL ENGAGEMENT OF THE GROUP. KEEP TO THE AGREEMENT AND COMMITMENTS YOU MAKE ABOUT HOW YOU WILL OPERATE AS A GROUP.

Don't add elements outside of what is suggest in these guideline e.g. it is not a meditation or a tai chi group or any other interest that one person particularly has.

If you need support because your meetings are not working well please talk to your Year Coordinator. Organise with the Year Coordinator for someone to visit your study group while it is operating.

Policy No. 18: appendix 2Guidelines for Study Groups
Years 2 & 3*Introduction

Whilst enrolled at Gestalt Therapy Brisbane Pty Ltd studying at Gestalt Therapy Brisbane (GTB) you are strongly encouraged to engage personally in the study of Gestalt theory and practice. It is recommended that you undertake approximately three hours of study for every hour of tuition to meet the course requirements. Your study group gives you the opportunity to fulfil 30 hours of this study in a supportive group setting.

Purpose

In Years 2 and 3 the main purpose of the self-directed group meetings is to give you the opportunity to practise the skills of therapy and to share your experience and understanding of what it means to be a Gestalt Therapist. You will also share your insights as to how the theory you have learned applies to the therapy you are practicing. As a consequence, your work will move from whole group engagement to CTO (Client/Therapist/Observer) work. When you engage with the whole group you will be practicing your group process skills. While you are engaging in CTO constellations you will focus on your ability to work with an individual. Notice the continuing shift in your awareness of your self as individual and yourself as member of a group. Also focus on your experience of moving in and out of the roles of therapist, client, observer, group facilitator and group member.

GTB encourages you to build a culture of respect for one another in your group engagement. Conflict may arise in your group. GTB uses the Guidelines for Collaborative Relating. Discuss these in your student group and identify how you will use these when conflict emerges. You may also like to visit the Conflict Resolution Network site if your skills are rusty <http://www.crnhq.org>

Suggestions for Pre Engagement

- Make a decision about how you will make contact with one another.
- Share contact details.
- Choose a leader for each of your study group sessions. Change your leadership for each session or every 2/3 hours.
- Make a collaborative decision about the focus of the group's work for each study group session.
- Structure the time available to meet the learning needs of the group.

Suggestion for When You Meet

- Take some time to address group forming issues and check in with one another.
- Engage in a group exercises around awareness and contact among the group members.
- Engage with CTOs and practice in 10-20 minute sessions. After each CTO session allow time for discussion. Invite the therapist to name what he/she has done well. You are learning to be Gestalt Therapists and you must create an environment where it is acceptable to learn, experiment and make mistakes. DO NOT GIVE CRITICAL FEEDBACK TO ONE ANOTHER. RATHER SUPPORT WHAT YOU SEE HAS BEEN DONE WELL.
- Discuss a theoretical aspect and design an experiment to illustrate the concept.
- Process what may be unfinished from a weekend workshop or other aspect of training.
- Finish the meeting with a check out. This could be a statement about how you experience the meeting and how you feel right now.

If you need support because your meetings are not working well please talk to your Year Coordinator.

As a student of GTB you cannot work with clients beyond the practice requirements outlined in your Moodle year information detail including duration of individual sessions and number of sessions to be conducted. (Students who have qualifications that allow them to practice please be clear with your clients when you are practicing for your training requirements and obtain the GTB consent on these occasions.)
3. A copy of each Student Clinic Information and Consent Form must be forward to GTB before you engage in your second session with your client.
4. You must keep therapist/client notes and bring these notes to supervision with an academic staff member. These notes, as per professional practice requirements, must be kept for 7 years and 10 years if the work is with a minor.
5. You must engage in supervision with an academic staff member. The ratio that GTB holds for beginning Gestalt therapists is no more than 4 sessions of therapy before you have 1 session of supervision. Supervision requirements are specified in your Year Information Pack.
Year 4: engage with GTB academic staff member in semester 1 and the supervisor of their choice in semester 2.
6. GTB, through your contracted GTB academic staff supervisor, must be informed immediately if a critical incident occurs whilst you are engaging with your client. Critical incidents must be recorded and dealt with in accordance with Policy No 5: Critical Incident Management. This Policy can be found on the GTB website: <http://www.gestalttherapybrisbane.qld.edu.au/policies>
Year 4: semester 1 inform academic staff supervisor and in semester 2 inform supervisor and year coordinator.
7. GTB, through your contracted GTB academic staff supervisor, must be informed immediately if you have any ethical concerns whilst you are engaging with your client.
8. GTB, through your contracted academic staff supervisor, must be informed if you have any concerns about the mental health of your client. It is not your responsibility to diagnose a mental health disorder. However, it is your responsibility to advise your academic staff supervisor if you have concerns that your client's mental health issues are beyond your capacity as a student therapist. Students are required to pay particular regard to indicators that their client is suicidal, holding homicidal ideation or psychotic. Students are to assess the critical nature of these conditions, act accordingly and talk to their supervisor immediately if a situation has been judged to be serious.
Year 4: semester 1 inform academic staff supervisor and in semester 2 inform supervisor and year coordinator.
9. You may seek the assistance of your supervisor during or between sessions with your client.
Year 4: will negotiate the level of supervision support with their semester 2 supervisor
10. Supervisors may intervene in clinical practice when he/she judges this to be necessary to your learning process and/or the safety of your client or you.
Year 4: this refers to the semester 1 academic staff supervisor
11. In the event that the supervisor judges that your practice is to be harmful to the client or you, it is the responsibility of the supervisor to intervene and close therapy as soon as is feasibly possible. Your supervisor will talk with you, in private, about the harmful behaviour.
Year 4: this refers to the semester 1 academic staff supervisor
12. You are required to meet the practice requirements outlined in the PACFA Code of Ethics

This policy applies to all staff engaged at GTB including academic staff, administrative and support staff, guest lecturers, supervisors and therapists and contractors.

This policy applies to all students enrolled in GTB.

It applies to staff and students in all teaching and learning and work-related interactions with each other, contacts and clients.

It applies at any site where GTB functions are undertaken (including social functions and celebrations), and while travelling and attending conferences.

Responsibilities

All staff and students contribute to the creation of a discrimination free and inclusive teaching and learning environment for students and to a safe working environment for GTB staff.

Directors and Year Coordinators have a particular obligation to model appropriate behaviour; promote this policy; treat all complaints seriously and attend to them promptly; monitor the teaching and learning and work environment and seek expert help for complex or serious matters.

All staff and students have the responsibility to comply with this policy; report incidents to Directors and Year Coordinators and not to participate in discriminatory or harassing behaviour.

Consequences of breach of the policy

Students and staff who make a complaint of discrimination, harassment, sexual harassment or sexual assault will not suffer any victimisation by GTB for making the complaint. This also applies to students or staff who agree to be a witness in a complaint or have a complaint made against them.

Disciplinary action will be taken by GTB against any student or staff member found to have breached this policy. Action will be appropriate to the breach and may include:

For staff:

- an official warning and note on their personnel file;
- requirement to make a formal apology;
- counselling;
- conditions on their contract of employment; and/or
- termination of their contract for serious matters.

For students:

- an official warning and note on the student's file;
- requirement to make a formal apology;
- counselling;
- conditions on their ongoing enrolment; and/or
- termination of their enrolment for serious matters such as sexual assault.

Relevant legislation

Under the Queensland Anti-Discrimination Act 1991 (the Act) discrimination, victimisation, sexual harassment, vilification and seeking unnecessary information on which discrimination might be based are illegal.

Discrimination on the following grounds is against the law:

- race, (including colour, descent or ancestry, nationality, national or ethnic origin);
- age (whether young or older);
- impairment (including biological, functional, learning, physical, sensory, mobility, cognitive, psychological, psychiatric impairment or the presence of an organism capable of causing disease);
- religious belief or activity;
- sex or gender identity;
- relationship status (including being married, single, divorced, separated, de facto or in a same sex relationship);
- sexuality;
- pregnancy, breastfeeding, parental status (including being or not being a parent, guardian, foster parent, adoptive parent, or step parent);
- family responsibilities (including the responsibility to care for and support a dependent child or immediate family member);
- lawful sexual activity as a sex worker;

- trade union activity;
- political belief or activity;
- association with someone else who is identified because of one of the above attributes.

Other behaviour that is against the law includes:

- seeking unnecessary information on which discrimination might be based;
- victimisation because a person has made a complaint, agreed to be a witness or has had a complaint made against them;
- sexual harassment is prohibited under both state legislation and the federal Sex Discrimination Act 1984;
- vilification on the basis of a person's race, religion, gender identity or sexuality.
- Federal anti-discrimination legislation also prohibits discrimination on the basis of criminal record, medical record or social origin; and,
- Sexual assault.

What is discrimination?

Direct discrimination occurs when a person (or a group of people) is singled out for worse treatment, compared to others in similar circumstances, because of one or more of the attributes listed above. Direct discrimination may involve:

- making offensive jokes about another person's racial or ethnic background, sex, sexuality, age or impairment;
- expressing negative stereotypes about particular groups or using stereotypes as a basis for decisions e.g. "Women with young children are too emotional, they should not be in the workplace." or "He is too old to be a therapist, he won't be able to relate to people."
- using selection processes based on irrelevant attributes such as age, race or impairment rather than on skills really needed for a job.

Indirect discrimination occurs when one rule applies to all, but in fact disadvantages a person (or group of people) because they are unable, or less able to comply with the rule because they have an attribute listed above. The fact that the disadvantage was not intended is not an excuse. For example:

- Requiring everyone to be available for all shifts might be unfair to a person with responsibilities to care for children or an elderly parent.
- Only hiring people who have never had a back injury or a workers compensation claim might rule out an employee whose health has returned and can do the job well.
- Not considering the provision of some reasonable adjustments would disadvantage a person with an impairment, who may be able to perform the essential parts of the job in a different way.

What is sexual harassment?

Sexual harassment is any form of unwelcome sexual attention that might offend, humiliate or intimidate the other person and may be experienced by women or men. It includes uninvited touching or physical contact; leering at a person or at parts of their body; talking about your sex life or asking about another person's sex life; sexual jokes or propositions; sexually offensive communications (phone, email, SMS or other social media.)

Sexual harassment is against the law wherever and whenever it occurs. GTB will not tolerate sexual harassment. Sexual harassment has nothing to do with mutual attraction. Such friendships are a private matter.

Sexual harassment does not have to be repeated or continuous to be against the law. Some actions or remarks are so offensive that they constitute sexual harassment in themselves, even if they are not repeated. Other single incidents, such as an unwanted invitation or compliment, may not be sexual harassment. Some forms of sexual harassment, such as assault, physical molestation, stalking, sexual assault and indecent exposure, are also criminal offences.

The person being harassed does not need to say that the behaviour is unwelcome. Many people find it difficult to speak up. All students and staff are responsible for their own behaviour. If you think your behaviour may offend, then don't do it.

Harassment

Harassment may not be sexual or related to discrimination on the basis of an attribute.

Harassment is repeated behaviour that is unwelcome and unsolicited and that the person experiencing it considers to be offensive, intimidating, humiliating or threatening.

Harassing behaviours can range from subtle intimidation to more obvious aggressive tactics. Examples include:

- abusing a person loudly, usually when others are present
- repeated threats of dismissal or other severe punishment for no reason
- constant ridicule and being put down
- leaving offensive messages on email or the telephone
- sabotaging a person's work, for example, by deliberately withholding or supplying incorrect information, hiding documents or equipment, not passing on messages and getting a person into trouble in other ways
- maliciously excluding and isolating a person from activities
- persistent and unjustified criticisms, often about petty, irrelevant or insignificant matters
- humiliating a person through gestures, sarcasm, criticism and insults, often in front of other students, academic staff or GTB staff; and,
- spreading gossip or false, malicious rumours about a person with an intent to cause the person harm.

There are bound to be occasional differences of opinion, conflicts and problems in working relationships; these are part of working and learning together. Harassment does not include:

- reasonable management action taken in a reasonable way in relation to employees; or
- reasonable course requirements placed on students for the completion of their studies; or
- communication of requirements to staff or students; or
- implementation of consequences for staff or students not meeting requirements.

Sharing personal information in the Gestalt therapy program

Within the Gestalt therapy education program students and academic staff are asked to explore their own processes within tuition and personal therapy. This important aspect of the Gestalt process ensures that students are sufficiently aware of their own life-story, meaning and processes to appropriately manage themselves as a therapist within therapeutic relationships. Policy No. 2: Guideline for Education Program: Ethical Considerations addresses this area further.

Exploring personal life-stories, meaning and processes involves sharing sensitive personal information, which may include experiences that have led to attitudes of a discriminatory nature. The sharing of such experiences and attitudes is not, in itself, discriminatory or harassing. However, students and academic staff are expected to talk and act with responsibility for their own life-story and processes, to recognise and acknowledge when this impacts on their interactions with others and to seek to appropriately modify their behaviour.

Students and staff are also expected to act with sensitivity to experiences and information shared by others and support others to share, recognise and acknowledge their experiences and to modify how their processes impact on others. It is expected that academic staff or students will not use personal information shared during tuition sessions to put another down, to make fun of the other or to demean another in any way.

Reasonable adjustments will be made

GTB recognizes that sometimes people with an impairment require reasonable adjustments to do a job or to undertake a course of study. Often adjustments will be straight forward, for example:

- being able to take medication in a private space;
- being able to stand up and move around at intervals to manage a back problem; or
- being granted an extension for assignments where appropriate.

Staff and students with impairments, particularly those that are long-standing, will often have existing self-managed strategies to manage their condition.

In the event that staff or students require greater adjustments, this should be discussed: as soon as the need is known.

Staff should discuss needs for adjustments with a Director or Year Coordinator at the point at which they are offered employment in relation to known needs, or as soon they are aware of their changing circumstances for emerging needs.

Students should discuss the need for adjustments with a Director at their application interview in relation to known needs, or with their Year Coordinator as soon as they are aware of their changing circumstances for emerging needs.

Students whose academic performance has been affected by a condition or impairment should refer to Policy No. 17: Special Consideration.

GTB will consider requests for adjustments on a case-by-case basis but cannot implement special services or facilities that would impose an unjustifiable hardship on the institution by virtue of cost, impact on the learning environment of students, or on the health and safety of staff or students. In addition, students must be able to meet all the requirements of the course including but not limited to 90% attendance at and participation in all components of the program and successful completion of all assessment tasks.

Vicarious liability

Under the Act the person who discriminates against, victimises, sexually harasses, assaults, vilifies or asks for unnecessary information can be liable for illegal behaviour. GTB may also be liable unless it can show it has taken reasonable steps to prevent it.

GTB provides all students and staff with this policy and with the PACFA Code of Ethics and raises the requirements of ethical and non-discriminatory/harassing behaviour within tuition and staff inservice.

GTB ensures that all students and staff are treated fairly and are not subject to any of the behaviours mentioned in this policy. GTB also ensures that people who make complaints, or who are witnesses, are not victimised in any way.

What to do if you are discriminated against, harassed or assaulted

Don't ignore the problem thinking it will go away; often it just gets worse.

GTB strongly encourages you to raise your concerns

You can do this through:

- Your Year Coordinator;
- Director; or
- The grievance procedure (Policy No. 3).

While GTB would like the opportunity to resolve complaints directly, GTB supports the right of any person who feels they have been discriminated against, harassed or sexually harassed to take their complaint to the ADCQ or Human Rights Commission at any stage. These organisations can be contacted for advice and for making a complaint at:

Policy No 19B

SEXUAL ASSAULT AND HARRASMENT POLICY

Ratified by the Academic Governance Body

Purpose

To promote security and safety of students and staff enrolled in Gestalt Therapy Brisbane courses.

Statement

GTB takes a zero-tolerance position in regard to sexual assault and sexual harassment. GTB recognises the right of all students and staff to experience a safe and respectful education environment. A taskforce within the Gestalt Education Process (GEP) committed has been convened to advise GTB of appropriate responses to prevent sexual harassment and assault.??

GTB considers sexual assault and sexual harassment as a legal, safety, and ethical issue. As a psychotherapy education institute, the issues of the potential abuse of power within a relationship need to be addressed in the education program. All students and academic staff are offered online training regarding sexual assault and sexual harassment in the Moodle site for their year. Also, throughout the course students are required to engage in learning and reflection on ethical relationships and the appropriate use of power in all professional settings.

Introduction

The educational plans and policies of Gestalt Therapy Brisbane are supported by its administrative structures. These structures are built on the following principles:

- The importance of good leadership and management. To this end decisions about the way GTB is organised will be made by the Directors of Gestalt Therapy Brisbane in consultation with GTB's committees and groups;
- GTB, although a small institution acknowledges that it is composed of interrelated parts that undertake particular functions and that change in any one unit can have flow-on effects in others.
- The quality of the work of Gestalt Therapy Brisbane depends on the quality of relationships among its people.
- That review and feedback related to its arrangements are regularly sought from students, staff and committees and groups in order to engage in continual improvement.
- That GTB's Administrative arrangements are an integral part of its Financial and Business Systems, Practices and Planning. Further information about GTB's Financial and Business Systems can be found in the GTB Business Plan.

The Directors of Gestalt Therapy Brisbane hold ultimate responsibility for meeting the administrative needs of Gestalt Therapy Brisbane. They are supported by a GTB Administrator.
