<sup>2</sup> Note: Equivalent Full-Time Student Load (EFTSL) is a measure used by the Commonwealth Government (Department of Education, Skills and Employment) and universities to measure total load consumed by a candidate. EFTSL is a measurement of how much a unit is worth in a normal full-time (96 credit point) year. To calculate a study load (EFTSL) for a single unit, divide the number of credit points for the unit by 96. For example, if the unit is worth 12 credit points, its EFTSL is 0.125.
